2. A trademark shall be liable to be declared invalid where the application for registration of the trademark was made in bad faith by the applicant.
3. A trademark shall not be refused registration in accordance with paragraph 1 (b), (c) or (d) if, before the date of application for registration, following the use which has been made of it, it has acquired a distinctive character. A trademark shall not be declared invalid for the same reasons if, before the date of application for a declaration of invalidity, following the use which has been made of it, it has acquired a distinctive character.

Article 2.2ter Relative grounds for refusal or invalidity

1. A trademark shall, in case an opposition is filed, not be registered or, if registered, shall be liable to be declared invalid where:
 - a. it is identical with an earlier trademark, and the goods or services for which the trademark is applied for or is registered are identical with the goods or services for which the earlier trademark is protected;
 - b. because of its identity with, or similarity to, the earlier trademark and the identity or similarity of the goods or services covered by the trademarks, there exists a likelihood of confusion on the part of the public; the likelihood of confusion includes the likelihood of association with the earlier trademark.
2. 'Earlier trademarks' within the meaning of paragraph 1 means:
 - a. trademarks of the following kinds with a date of application for registration which is earlier than the date of application for registration of the trademark, taking account, where appropriate, of the priorities claimed in respect of those trademarks:
 - i. Benelux trademarks and international trademarks designating the Benelux territory;
 - ii. EU trademarks, including international trademarks designating the European Union;
 - b. EU trademarks which validly claim seniority, in accordance with European Union trade mark regulation, of a trademark referred to under (a) (i), even when the latter trademark has been surrendered or allowed to lapse;
 - c. applications for the trademarks referred to under (a) and (b), subject to their registration;
 - d. trademarks which, on the date of application for registration of the trademark, or, where appropriate, of the priority claimed in respect of the application for registration of the trademark, are well known in the Benelux territory, in the sense in which the words 'well-known' are used in Article 6bis of the Paris Convention.
3. Furthermore, a trademark shall, in case an opposition is filed, not be registered or, if registered, shall be liable to be declared invalid where:
 - a. it is identical with, or similar to, an earlier trademark irrespective of whether the goods or services for which it is applied or registered are identical with, similar to or not similar to those for which the earlier trademark is registered, where the earlier trademark has a reputation in the Benelux territory or, in the case of an EU trademark, has a reputation in the European Union and the use of the later trademark without due cause would take unfair advantage of, or be detrimental to, the distinctive character or the repute of the earlier trademark;
 - b. an agent or representative of the proprietor of the trademark applies for registration thereof in his own name without the proprietor's authorisation, unless the agent or representative justifies his action;
 - c. and to the extent that, pursuant to Union legislation or the internal law of one of the Benelux countries providing for protection of designations of origin and geographical indications:
 - i. an application for a designation of origin or a geographical indication had already been submitted in accordance with Union legislation or the internal law of one of the Benelux countries prior to the date of application for registration of the trademark or the date of the priority claimed for the application, subject to its subsequent registration;
 - ii. that designation of origin or geographical indication confers on the person authorised under the relevant law to exercise the rights arising therefrom the right to prohibit the use of a subsequent trademark.
4. A trademark may not be refused registration or declared invalid where the proprietor of the earlier trademark or other earlier right consents to the registration of the later trademark.

Article 2.2quater Grounds for refusal or invalidity relating to only some of the goods or services

Where grounds for refusal of registration or for invalidity of a trademark exist in respect of only some of the goods or services for which that trademark has been applied or registered, refusal of registration or invalidity shall cover those goods or services only.

Without prejudice to the rights of proprietors acquired before the filing date or the priority date of the registered trademark, and without prejudice to the possible application of ordinary law in matters of civil liability, the proprietor of that registered trademark shall be entitled to prevent all third parties not having his consent from using any sign where such sign:
 - a. is identical with the trademark and is used in the course of trade in relation to goods or services which are identical with those for which the trademark is registered;
 - b. is identical with, or similar to, the trademark and is used in the course of trade in relation to goods or services which are identical with, or similar to, the goods or services for which the trademark is registered, if there exists a likelihood of confusion on the part of the public; the likelihood of confusion includes the likelihood of association between the sign and the trademark;
 - c. is identical with, or similar to, the trademark irrespective of whether it is used in relation to goods or services which are identical with, similar to, or not similar to, those for which the trademark is registered, where the latter has a reputation in the Benelux territory and where use in the course of trade of that sign without due cause takes unfair advantage of, or is detrimental to, the distinctive character or the repute of the trademark;
 - d. is used for purposes other than those of distinguishing goods or services, where use of the sign without due cause, would take unfair advantage of or be detrimental to the distinctive character or the repute of the trademark.
3. The following, in particular, may be prohibited under paragraph 2 (a) to (c):
 - a. affixing the sign to the goods or to the packaging thereof;
 - b. offering the goods or putting them on the market, or stocking them for those purposes, under the sign, or offering or supplying services thereunder;

 - e. using the sign on business papers and in advertising;
 - f. using the sign in comparative advertising in a manner that is contrary to Directive 2006/114/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 12 December 2006 concerning misleading and comparative advertising.
4. Without prejudice to the rights of proprietors acquired before the filing date or the priority date of the registered trademark, the proprietor of that registered trademark shall also be entitled to prevent all third parties from bringing goods, in the course of trade, into the Benelux territory, without being released for free circulation there, where such goods, including the packaging thereof, come from third countries and bear without authorisation a trademark which is identical with the trademark registered in respect of such goods, or which cannot be distinguished in its essential aspects from that trademark.

The entitlement of the trademark proprietor pursuant to the first subparagraph shall lapse if, during the proceedings to determine whether the registered trademark has been infringed, initiated in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 608/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 12 June 2013 concerning customs enforcement of intellectual property rights and repealing Council Regulation (EC) No 1383/2003, evidence is provided by the declarant or the holder of the goods that the proprietor of the registered trademark is not entitled to prohibit the placing of the goods on the market in the country of final destination.

5. Where the risk exists that the packaging, labels, tags, security or authenticity features or devices, or any other means to which the trademark is affixed, could be used in relation to goods or services and that use would constitute an infringement of the rights of the proprietor of a trademark under paragraph 2 and 3, the proprietor of that trademark shall have the right to prohibit the following acts if carried out in the course of trade:
 - a. affixing a sign identical with, or similar to, the trademark on packaging, labels, tags, security or authenticity features or devices, or any other means to which the mark may be affixed;
 - b. offering or placing on the market, or stocking for those purposes, or importing or exporting, packaging, labels, tags, security or authenticity features or devices, or any other means to which the mark is affixed.
6. The exclusive right to a trademark expressed in one of the national or regional languages of the Benelux territory extends automatically to its translation into another of those languages. Evaluation of the similarity arising from translations into one or more languages foreign to the aforesaid territory shall be a matter for the courts.

Article 2.20bis Reproduction of trademarks in dictionaries

If the reproduction of a trademark in a dictionary, encyclopaedia or similar reference work, in print or electronic form, gives the impression that it constitutes the generic name of the goods or services for which the trademark is registered, the publisher of the work shall, at the request of the proprietor of the trademark, ensure that the reproduction of the trademark is, without delay, and in the case of works in printed form at the latest in the next edition of the publication, accompanied by an indication that it is a registered trademark.

Article 2.20ter Prohibition of the use of a trademark registered in the name of an agent or representative

1. Where a trademark is registered in the name of the agent or representative of a person who is the proprietor of that trademark, without the proprietor's consent, the latter shall be entitled to do either or both of the following:
 - a. oppose the use of the trademark by his agent or representative;
 - b. demand the assignment of the trademark in his favour.
2. Paragraph 1 shall not apply where the agent or representative justifies his action.

Article 2.21 Compensation for damages and other actions

1. Subject to the same conditions as in Article 2.20 (2), the exclusive right in a trademark shall allow its proprietor to claim compensation for any prejudice which he has suffered following use within the meaning of that provision.
2. The court which sets the damages:
 - a. shall take into account all appropriate aspects, such as the negative economic consequences, including lost profits, which the injured party has suffered, any unfair profits made by the infringer and, in appropriate cases, elements other than economic factors, such as the moral prejudice caused to the proprietor of the trademark as a result of the infringement; or
 - b. as an alternative to (a), it may, in appropriate cases, set the damages as a lump sum on the basis of elements such as at least the amount of royalties or fees which would have been due if the infringer had requested authorization to use the trademark.
3. Furthermore, the court may order, at the request of the proprietor of a trademark and by way of compensation, that ownership of goods which infringe a trademark right, as well as, in appropriate cases, the materials and implements principally used in the manufacture of those goods, be transferred to the proprietor of the trademark; the court may order that the transfer shall only take place upon payment by the claimant of a sum which it shall fix.
4. In addition to or instead of the action for compensation, the proprietor of a trademark may institute proceedings for transfer of the profits made following the use referred to in Article 2.20 (2), and for the provision of accounts in this regard. The court shall reject the application if it considers that this use is not in bad faith or the circumstances of the case do not justify such an order.
5. The proprietor of a trademark may institute proceedings for compensation or transfer of profits in the name of the licensee, without prejudice to the right granted to the licensee in Article 2.32 (5) and (6).

6. The proprietor of a trademark may require reasonable compensation from a party which has carried out acts such as those mentioned in Article 2.20 (2) during the period between the date of publication of the filing and the date of registration of the trademark, insofar as the proprietor of the trademark has acquired exclusive rights in this regard.

Article 2.22 Additional claims

1. Without prejudice to any damages due to the proprietor of a trademark by reason of the infringement, and without compensation of any sort, the courts may order, at the request of the proprietor of a trademark, the recall from the channels of commerce, the definitive removal from the channels of commerce or the destruction of goods which infringe a trademark right, as well as, in appropriate cases, materials and implements principally used in the manufacture of those goods. Those measures shall be carried out at the expense of the infringer, unless there particular reasons for not doing so. In considering a request as referred to in this paragraph, the proportionality between the seriousness of the infringement and the remedies ordered as well as the interests of third parties shall be taken into account.
2. The provisions of national law relating to steps to preserve rights and the enforcement of judgments and officially recorded acts shall apply.
3. Insofar as not provided for by national law and at the request of the proprietor of a trademark, the courts may, under this provision, issue an interlocutory injunction against the alleged infringer or against an intermediary whose services are used by a third party to infringe a trademark right, in order to:
 - a. prevent any imminent infringement of a trademark right, or
 - b. forbid, on a provisional basis and subject, where appropriate, to a recurring penalty payment, the continuation of the alleged infringements of a trademark right, or
 - c. make continuation of the alleged infringements subject to the lodging of guarantees intended to ensure the compensation of the proprietor of the trademark.
4. At the request of the proprietor of a trademark in proceedings concerning an infringement of his rights, the courts may order the party infringing the proprietor's right to provide the proprietor with all information available concerning the origin and distribution networks of the goods and services which have infringed the trademark and to provide him with all the data relating thereto, insofar as this measure seems justified and proportionate.
5. The order referred to in paragraph 4 may also be issued against anyone who is in possession of the infringing goods on a commercial scale, who has used the infringing services on a commercial scale or who has provided, on a commercial scale, services used in infringing activities.
6. The courts may, at the request of the proprietor of a trademark, issue an injunction for the cessation of services against intermediaries whose services are used by a third party to infringe its trademark right.
7. The courts may order, at the request of the claimant and at the expense of the infringer, that appropriate measures be taken to disseminate information concerning the decision.

 - c. the trademark for the purpose of identifying or referring to goods or services as those of the proprietor of that trademark, in particular, where the use of the trademark is necessary to indicate the intended purpose of a product or service, in particular as accessories or spare parts;provided that such use is made in accordance with honest practices in industrial or commercial matters.
2. A trademark shall not entitle the proprietor to prohibit a third party from using, in the course of trade, an earlier right which only applies in a particular locality, if that right is recognised by the law of one of the Benelux countries and the use of that right is within the limits of the territory in which it is recognised.

3. A trademark shall not entitle the proprietor to prohibit its use in relation to goods which have been put on the market in the European Economic Area under that trademark by the proprietor or with the proprietor's consent, unless there exist legitimate reasons for the proprietor to oppose further commercialisation of the goods, especially where the condition of the goods is changed or impaired after they have been put on the market.

Article 2.23bis Genuine use of the trademark

1. If, within a period of five years following the date of the completion of the registration procedure, the proprietor has not put the trademark to genuine use in the Benelux territory in connection with the goods or services in respect of which it is registered, or if such use has been suspended during a continuous five-year period, the trademark shall be subject to the limits and sanctions provided for in Article 2.16bis (1) and (2) 2.23ter, 2.27 (2) and 2.30quinquies (3) and (4), unless there are proper reasons for non-use.
2. In the case referred to in Article 2.8 (2), the five-year period referred to in paragraph 1 shall be calculated from the date when the mark can no longer be subject of a refusal on absolute grounds or an opposition or, in the event that a refusal has been issued or an opposition has been lodged, from the date when a decision decision lifting the Office's objections on absolute grounds or terminating the opposition proceedings became final or the opposition was withdrawn.
3. With regard to international trademarks having effect in the Benelux territory, the five-year period referred to in paragraph 1 shall be calculated from the date when the mark can no longer be subject to refusal or opposition. Where an opposition has been lodged or when a refusal on absolute grounds has been notified, the period shall be calculated from the date when a decision terminating the opposition proceedings or a ruling on absolute grounds for refusal became final or the opposition was withdrawn.
4. The date of commencement of the five-year period, as referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2, shall be entered in the register.
5. The following shall also constitute use within the meaning of paragraph 1:

 - b. affixing of the trademark to goods or to the packaging thereof in the Benelux territory solely for export purposes.
6. Use of the trademark with the consent of the proprietor shall be deemed to constitute use by the proprietor.

If the defendant so requests, the proprietor of the trademark shall furnish proof that, during the five-year period preceding the date of bringing the action, the trademark has been put to genuine use as provided in Article 2.23bis in connection with the goods or services in respect of which it is registered and which are cited as justification for the action, or that there are proper reasons for non-use, provided that the registration procedure of the trademark has at the date of bringing the action been completed for not less than five years.

TITLE III: DESIGNS

Chapter 1. Designs

Article 3.1 Designs

1. A design shall be protected to the extent that it is new and has individual character.
2. The appearance of the whole or a part of a product shall be regarded as a design.
3. The appearance of a product shall be imparted, in particular, through the features of the lines, contours, colours, shape, texture and/or materials of the product itself and/or its ornamentation.
4. A product shall mean any industrial or handicraft item, including inter alia parts intended to be assembled into a complex product, packaging, get-up, graphic symbols and typographic typefaces. Computer programs shall not be regarded as a product.

Article 3.2 Exception

1. The following shall be excluded from the protection provided for by this title:
 - a. the features of appearance of a product which are solely dictated by its technical function.
 - b. the features of appearance of a product which must necessarily be reproduced in their exact form and dimensions in order to permit the product in which the design is incorporated or to which it is applied to be mechanically connected to or placed in, around or against another product so that either product may perform its function.
2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1 (b), the features of appearance of a product serving the purpose of allowing multiple assembly or connection of mutually interchangeable products within a modular system shall be protected as a design, under the conditions laid down in Article 3.1 (1).

Article 3.3 Novelty and individual character

1. A design shall be considered new if no identical design has been made available to the public before the date of filing of the application or the date of priority. Designs shall be deemed to be identical if their features differ only in immaterial details.
2. A design shall be considered to have individual character if the overall impression it produces on the informed user differs from the overall impression produced on such a user by any design which has been made available to the public before the date of filing or the date of priority. In assessing individual character, the degree of freedom of the designer in developing the design shall be taken into consideration.
3. In order to assess novelty and individual character, a design shall be deemed to have been made available to the public if it has been published following registration or otherwise, or exhibited, used in trade or otherwise disclosed, except where these events could not reasonably have become known in the normal course of business to the circles specialised in the sector concerned, operating within the European Community or the European Economic Area, before the date of filing or the date of priority. The design shall not, however, be deemed to have been made available to the public for the sole reason that it has been disclosed to a third person under explicit or implicit conditions of confidentiality.

4. In order to assess novelty and individual character, a disclosure shall not be taken into consideration if a design for which protection is claimed under a registered design right has been made available to the public during the 12-month period preceding the date of filing of the application or the date of priority:
 - a. by the designer, his successor in title, or a third person as a result of information provided or action taken by the designer, or his successor in title; and
 - b. if the design has been made available to the public as a consequence of an abuse in relation to the designer or his successor in title.
5. Right of priority shall mean the right provided for under Article 4 of the Paris Convention. This right may be claimed by anyone who properly submits an application for a design or utility model in one of the countries which is a party to the said Convention or the TRIPS Agreement.

Article 3.4 Parts of complex products

1. A design applied to or incorporated in a product which constitutes a component part of a complex product shall only be considered to be new and to have individual character:
 - a. if the component part, once it has been incorporated into the complex product, remains visible during normal use of the latter; and
 - b. to the extent that those visible features of the component part fulfil in themselves the requirements as to novelty and individual character.
2. For the purposes of this title, complex product shall mean a product which is composed of multiple components which can be replaced permitting disassembly and re-assembly of the product.
3. Normal use within the meaning of paragraph 1 shall mean use by the end user, excluding maintenance, servicing or repair work.

Article 3.5 Acquisition of rights

1. Without prejudice to the right of priority, the exclusive right in a design shall be acquired by registration of the application that has been filed in Benelux territory with the Office (Benelux filing) or with the International Bureau (international filing).
2. Where two or more filings are made for the same design, if the first filing is not followed by the publication provided for by Article 3.11 (2) of this convention or Article 6 (3) of the Hague Agreement, the succeeding filing shall acquire the status of first filing.

Article 3.6 Restrictions

Within the limits of Articles 3.23 and 3.24 (2), registration shall not grant the right to a design where:

- a. the design is in conflict with a prior design which has been made available to the public after the date of filing or the date of priority, and which is protected from a date prior to the said date by an exclusive right deriving from a Community design, the registration of a Benelux filing, or an international filing;
- b. a prior trademark is used in the design without the consent of proprietor of that trademark;
- c. a work protected by copyright is used in the design without the consent of the copyright owner;
- d. the design constitutes an improper use of any of the items listed in Article 6ter of the Paris Convention;
- e. the design is contrary to public policy or to accepted principles of morality in one of the Benelux countries;
- f. the filing does not sufficiently reveal the features of the design.

Article 3.7 Claim of the application

1. During a period of five years following publication of the registration of a filing, the designer of the design or the person who, under to Article 3.8, is deemed to be the designer, may claim the right to the Benelux application or the rights in Benelux territory deriving from the international filing of that design, if the filing was made by a third party without the designer's consent; the designer may on the same grounds and at any time invoke the invalidity of the registration of the filing or of the rights referred to. The action to claim shall be registered with the Office at the claimant's request in the manner laid down by the implementing regulations and on payment of the fees due.
2. If the applicant referred to in paragraph 1 has requested the total or partial surrender of the registration of the Benelux filing or has renounced the rights in Benelux territory deriving from an international filing, such surrender or renunciation shall, subject to paragraph 3, not have effects vis-à-vis the designer or the person deemed to be the designer under Article 3.8, provided that the filing has been claimed within one year from the date of publication of the surrender or renunciation and before the expiry of the five-year period referred to in paragraph 1.
3. If, during the interval between the surrender or renunciation referred to in paragraph 2 and the registration of the action to claim, a third party, acting in good faith, has exploited a product that is identical in appearance or that does not produce a different overall impression on an informed user, that product shall be considered to have been lawfully put on the market.

Article 3.8 Rights of employers and commissioning parties

1. If a design has been developed by an employee in the execution of his duties, the employer shall, unless otherwise agreed, be deemed to be the designer.
2. If a design has been created on commission, the commissioning party shall, unless specified otherwise, be deemed to be the designer, provided that the commission was given with a view to commercial or industrial use of the product in which the design is incorporated.

Chapter 2. Filing, registration and renewal

Article 3.9 Filing

1. A Benelux application for designs shall be filed, either with the national administrations or with the Office, in the manner specified by the implementing regulations and against payment of the fees due. A Benelux application may comprise either a single design (single filing) or several (multiple filing). A check shall be made to ensure that the documents produced satisfy the conditions specified for fixing the filing date and the filing date shall be fixed. The applicant shall be informed, without delay and in writing, of the date of filing or, where applicable, of the grounds for not fixing a filing date.
2. If other provisions of the implementing regulations are not satisfied at the time of filing, the applicant shall be informed without delay and in writing of the conditions which are not fulfilled and shall be given the opportunity to respond.
3. The application shall have no further effect if the provisions of the implementing regulations are not satisfied within the period granted.
4. Where filing takes place with a national administration, the national administration shall forward the Benelux application to the Office, either without delay after receiving the application or after establishing that the application satisfies conditions specified in paragraphs 1 to 3.
5. Without prejudice in the case of Benelux filings to the application of Article 3.13, filings of designs may not be the subject, as far as substance is concerned, of any examination giving rise to findings which could be binding on the applicant by the Office.

Article 3.10 Claiming priority

1. A right of priority shall be claimed at the time of filing or in the month following filing, by means of a special declaration submitted to the Office in the manner laid down by the implementing regulations and against payment of the fees due.
2. If no such claim is made, the right of priority shall lapse.

Article 3.11 Registration

1. The Office shall register, without delay, Benelux filings and also international filings which have been the subject of publication in the "Bulletin International des dessins ou modèles – International Design Gazette" and in respect of which the applicants have requested that these should have effect in Benelux territory.
2. Without prejudice to the provisions of Articles 3.12 and 3.13, the Office shall publish registrations of Benelux filings in accordance with the implementing regulations as soon as possible.
3. If the publication does not sufficiently disclose the features of the design, the applicant may request the Office to make another publication within the period specified for the purpose without charge.
4. Following publication of a design, the public may inspect the registration and the documents produced at the time of filing.

Article 3.12 Deferment of publication on request

1. When making a Benelux filing, the applicant may request that publication of the registration be deferred for a period of not more than twelve months from the date of filing or the date on which the right of priority arises.
2. If the applicant makes use of the possibility provided for under paragraph 1, the Office shall defer publication in accordance with the request.

Article 3.13 Contraventions of public policy and morality

1. The Office shall defer publication if it considers that the design falls within the scope of Article 3.6 (e).
2. The Office shall notify the applicant of this and invite it to withdraw the application within a period of two months.
3. If the party in question has not withdrawn the application on the expiry of that period, the Office shall refuse to publish the registration. The Office shall inform the applicant in writing and without delay, indicating the reasons for the refusal to publish and mentioning the right of appeal against this decision contained in Article 1.15bis.
4. The refusal to publish shall become final only once the decision of the Office is no longer subject to appeal. This will result in the nullity of the application.

Article 3.14 Term and renewal of registration

1. Benelux filings shall be registered for a term of five years from the date of filing. Without prejudice to the provisions of Article 3.24 (2), the design to which a filing relates may not be modified either during the term of the registration or at the time of renewal.
2. The registration may be renewed for four successive periods of five years up to a maximum of 25 years.
3. Renewal shall be effected by payment of the fee specified for that purpose. This fee must be paid during the twelve months preceding expiry of the registration; it may still be paid during the six months following the expiry date of the registration, subject to simultaneous payment of an additional fee. Renewal shall have effect from expiry of the registration.
4. Renewal may be restricted to only part of the designs included in a multiple filing.
5. Six months before expiry of the first to the fourth periods of registration, the Office shall provide a reminder of that expiry date by means of notification addressed to the holder of the design and to third parties whose rights in the design have been entered in the register.

6. Office reminders shall be sent to the last known address of the interested parties. Failure to send or receive such notices shall not constitute dispensation from the obligations resulting from paragraph 3. It may not be invoked either in court proceedings or against the Office.
7. The Office shall register renewals and publish them in accordance with the implementing regulations.

Article 3.15 International filings

International filings shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the Hague Agreement.

Chapter 3. Rights of the holder

Article 3.16 Scope of protection

1. Without prejudice to the application of ordinary law relating to civil liability, the exclusive right in a design shall allow its right holder to challenge the use of a product in which the design is incorporated or on which the design is applied, which has an identical appearance to the design as filed, or which does not produce a different overall impression on an informed user, taking into consideration the designer's degree of freedom in developing the design.
2. Use shall cover, in particular, the making, offering, putting on the market, sale, delivery, hire, importing, exporting, exhibiting, or using or stocking for one of those purposes.

Article 3.17 Compensation for damages and other actions

1. The exclusive right shall allow the holder to claim compensation for the acts listed in Article 3.16 only if those acts took place after the publication referred to in Article 3.11, adequately disclosing the features of the design.
2. The court which sets the damages:
 - a. shall take into account all appropriate aspects, such as the negative economic consequences, including lost profits, which the injured party has suffered, any unfair profits made by the infringer and, in appropriate cases, elements other than economic factors, such as the moral prejudice caused to the holder of the exclusive right in a design as a result of the infringement; or
 - b. as an alternative to (a), it may, in appropriate cases, set the damages as a lump sum on the basis of elements such as at least the amount of royalties or fees which would have been due if the infringer had requested authorization to use the design.
3. Furthermore, the court may order, at the request of the holder of the exclusive right in a design and by way of compensation, that ownership of goods which infringe a design right, as well as, in appropriate cases, the materials and implements principally used in the manufacture of those goods, be transferred to this holder; the court may order that the transfer shall only take place upon payment by the claimant of a sum which it shall fix.
4. In addition to or instead of the action for compensation, the holder of the exclusive right in a design may institute proceedings for transfer of the profits made following the use referred to in Article 3.16, and for the provision of accounts in this regard. The court shall reject the application if it considers that this use is not in bad faith or the circumstances of the case do not justify such an order.
5. The holder of the exclusive right in a design may institute proceedings for compensation or transfer of profits in the name of the licensee, without prejudice to the right granted to the licensee in Article 3.26 (4).
6. With effect from the filing date, reasonable compensation may be required from a party which, being aware of the filing, has engaged in acts such as those mentioned in Article 3.16, insofar as the holder has acquired exclusive rights in this regard.

Article 3.18 Additional claims

1. Without prejudice to any damages due to the holder of the exclusive right in a design by reason of the infringement, and without compensation of any sort, the courts may order, at the request of the holder of the exclusive right in a design, the recall from the channels of commerce, the definitive removal from the channels of commerce or the destruction of goods which infringe a design right, as well as, in appropriate cases, materials and implements principally used in the manufacture of those goods. Those measures shall be carried out at the expense of the infringer, unless there particular reasons for not doing so. In considering a request as referred to in this paragraph, the proportionality between the seriousness of the infringement and the remedies ordered as well as the interests of third parties shall be taken into account.
2. The provisions of national law relating to steps to preserve rights and the enforcement of judgments and officially recorded acts shall apply.
3. Insofar as not provided for by national law and at the request of the holder of the exclusive right in a design, the courts may, under this provision, issue an interlocutory injunction against the alleged infringer or against an intermediary whose services are used by a third party to infringe a design right, in order to:
 - a. prevent any imminent infringement of a design right, or
 - b. forbid, on a provisional basis and subject, where appropriate, to a recurring penalty payment, the continuation of the alleged infringements of a design right, or
 - c. make continuation of the alleged infringements subject to the lodging of guarantees intended to ensure the compensation of the holder.
4. At the request of the holder of the exclusive right in a design in proceedings concerning an infringement of his rights, the courts may order the party infringing the holder's right to provide the holder with all information available concerning the origin and distribution networks of the goods and services which have infringed the design and to provide him with all the data relating thereto, insofar as this measure seems justified and proportionate.
5. The order referred to in paragraph 4 may also be issued against anyone who is in possession of the infringing goods on a commercial scale, who has used the infringing services on a commercial scale or who has provided, on a commercial scale, services used in infringing activities.
6. The courts may, at the request of the holder of the exclusive right in a design, issue an injunction for the cessation of services against intermediaries whose services are used by a third party to infringe its design right.
7. The courts may order, at the request of the claimant and at the expense of the infringer, that appropriate measures be taken to disseminate information concerning the decision.

Article 3.19 Limitation of the effects of the exclusive right

1. The exclusive right to a design shall not imply the right to contest:
 - a. acts done privately and for non-commercial purposes;
 - b. acts done for experimental purposes;
 - c. acts of reproduction for the purpose of making citations or of teaching, provided that such acts are compatible with fair trade practice and do not unduly prejudice the normal exploitation of the design, and that mention is made of the source.
2. Furthermore, the exclusive right in a design shall not imply the right to contest:
 - a. the equipment on ships and aircraft registered in a third country when these temporarily enter the Benelux territory;
 - b. the importation in the Benelux territory of spare parts and accessories for the purpose of repairing such craft;
 - c. the execution of repairs on such craft.
3. The exclusive right in a design constituting a part of a complex product shall not imply the right to contest use of the design for the purposes of repair of that complex product in order to restore to its initial appearance.
4. The exclusive right in a design shall not imply the right to contest the acts mentioned in Article 3.16 relating to products which have been placed in circulation in one of the Member States of the European Community or European Economic Area, either by the holder or with the holder's consent, or the acts mentioned in Article 3.20.
5. Actions may not relate to products which were put on the market in Benelux territory prior to the filing.

Article 3.20 Rights of prior use

1. A right of prior use shall be recognized for third parties who, prior to the filing date for a design or to the priority date, manufactured on Benelux territory products that are identical in appearance to the design filed or that do not produce a different overall impression on an informed user.
2. The same right shall be recognized for those who, in the same conditions, have started to carry out their intention to manufacture.
3. However, this right shall not be recognized for third parties who have copied the design in question without the designer's consent.
4. The right of prior use shall permit the holder of it to continue or, in the circumstances referred to in paragraph 2, to undertake manufacture of those products and to carry out all the other acts mentioned in Article 3.16, notwithstanding the right deriving from the registration, with the exception of importing.
5. The right of prior use may be transferred only together with the business in which the acts which gave rise to it took place.

Chapter 4. Surrender, lapse and invalidity

Article 3.21 Surrender

1. The holder of the registration of a Benelux filing may at any time request surrender of that registration, unless third parties have legal contractual rights which have been notified to the Office.
2. In the case of multiple filings, surrender may relate only to part of the designs included in the filing.
3. If a license has been recorded, registration of the design may be surrendered only at the joint request of the holder of the design and the licensee. The provisions of the previous sentence shall apply where a pledge or attachment has been recorded.
4. Surrender shall have effect for the whole of Benelux territory, notwithstanding any declaration to the contrary.
5. The rules laid down in this Article shall also apply to renunciation of the protection deriving for Benelux territory from an international filing.

Article 3.22 Lapse of right

Subject to the provisions of Article 3.7 (2), the exclusive right in a design shall lapse:

- a. through surrender or expiry of the registration of the Benelux filing;
- b. through expiry of the registration of the international filing or through renunciation of the rights for Benelux territory deriving from the international filing, or through ex officio cancellation of the international filing as referred to in Article 6 (4) (c), of the Hague Agreement.

Article 3.23 Invalidation

1. Any interested party, including the Public Prosecutor, may invoke the invalidity of the registration of a design if:
 - a. if the design does not correspond to the definition under Article 3.1 (2) and (3);
 - b. the design does not satisfy the conditions specified in Article 3.1 (1) and Articles 3.3 and 3.4;
 - c. the design falls within the scope of Article 3.2;
 - d. the registration does not grant a right in the design pursuant to Article 3.6 (e) or (f).
2. Only the applicant or the holder of an exclusive right in a design deriving from the registration of a Community design, a Benelux registration or an international filing may invoke the invalidity of the registration of the later filing of a design which is in conflict with its right, if registration of the filing does not grant the right in the design in accordance with Article 3.6 (a).
3. Only the holder of a prior trademark right or the owner of a prior copyright may invoke the invalidity of the registration of the Benelux filing or of the rights deriving for Benelux territory from an international filing of the design, if no right in the design has been acquired in accordance with Article 3.6 (b) or (c).

4. Only the interested party may invoke the invalidity of the registration of a design, if no right in the design has been acquired in accordance with Article 3.6 (d).
5. Only the designer of a design as referred to under Article 3.7 (1) may, in the conditions referred to under that Article, invoke the invalidity of the registration of the filing of a design made by a third party without his consent.
6. Registration of the filing of a design may be declared invalid even after the right has lapsed or been surrendered.
7. When an action for invalidation is brought by the Public Prosecutor, only the courts of Brussels, The Hague and Luxembourg shall have jurisdiction. Action brought by the Public Prosecutor shall stay any other action brought on the same grounds.

Article 3.24 Scope of invalidity, surrender and renunciation

1. Subject to the provisions of paragraph 2, invalidation, surrender and renunciation shall apply to the design in its entirety.
2. If the registration of the filing of a design may be invalidated in accordance with Article 3.6 (b), (c), (d) or (e), or Article 3.23 (1) (b) and (c), filing may be maintained in an amended form if, in that form, the design complies with the requirements for protection and the identity of the design is retained.
3. Maintenance as referred to in paragraph 2 may be understood as registration accompanied by a partial disclaimer by the holder or the registration or a court order which is no longer open to opposition or appeal or to reversal by a court of cassation declaring the partial invalidity of the right.

Chapter 5. Transfer, licence and other rights

Article 3.25 Transfer

1. The exclusive right in a design may be transferred.
2. The following shall be null and void:

1. The exclusive right in a design may be the subject of a license.
2. The holder of a design right may invoke the exclusive right in a design against a licensee who contravenes the clauses of the licensing agreement in respect of its term, the form covered by the registration in which the design may be used, the products for which the licence is granted and the quality of the products put on the market by the licensee.
3. Entry of a licence in the register may be cancelled only at the joint request of the holder of the design right and the licensee.
4. The licensee shall have the right to act in an action brought by the holder of the exclusive right in a design, as mentioned in Article 3.17 (1) to (4), in order to obtain compensation for a prejudice directly incurred by him or to be allocated a proportion of the profit made by the defendant. The licensee may bring independent action as mentioned in Article 3.17 (1) to (4) only if it has obtained the permission of the holder of the exclusive right for that purpose.
5. The licensee shall be authorized to exercise the powers referred to under Article 3.18 (1), provided that these are in order to protect the rights which it has been permitted to exercise and provided that it has obtained permission from the holder of the exclusive right in a design for that purpose.

Article 3.27 Opposability against third parties

The assignment or other transfer or the licence shall become opposable against third parties only after filing of an extract from the document establishing this or a corresponding declaration signed by the parties involved has been registered in the manner specified by the implementing regulations and following payment of the fees due. The provision in the preceding sentence shall apply to rights of pledge and attachments.

Chapter 6. Cumulation with copyright

Article 3.28 Cumulation

1. Authorization given by the designer of a work protected by copyright to a third party to file a design in which that work is incorporated shall imply the assignment of the copyright attached to that work insofar as it is incorporated in the design.
2. The party filing a design shall be presumed also to be the owner of the copyright relating thereto; this presumption shall not, however, apply in respect of the true designer or his beneficiary.
3. The assignment of the copyright relating to a design shall result in the assignment of the right in the design and vice versa, without prejudice to the application of Article 3.25.

Article 3.29 Copyright of employers and commissioning parties

Where a design is created in the circumstances referred to in Article 3.8, the copyright relating to the design shall belong to the party deemed to be the designer, in accordance with the provisions of that Article.

The place in which the trademark or design is filed or registered shall not under any circumstances be used as the sole basis for determining territorial jurisdiction.

Referral may only be requested when the actions are pending at first instance.
